

Ground Systems Development & Operations

ACTIVITY PAGE

WE ARE GO... FOR COLORING!

At Kennedy Space Center, GSDO engineers use computers to command, control and monitor a spacecraft during launch. These engineers are some of the most talented and qualified men and women from around the world. They come from a wide variety of educational and career backgrounds to become experts in different areas of spacecraft technology and ground systems.